

TEA Protects Administrators

Being a member of the Tennessee Education Association is just as important for principals as it is for classroom teachers. Association membership ensures you will always have someone watching your back and protecting your rights. Administrator rights defined in state law were established as the result of TEA-led court cases.

Association membership also connects you with a network of tens of thousands of educators statewide who will stand with you to protect public education in Tennessee.

It's time to join the association that shares your passion and commitment to Tennessee public schools.
